FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Q: Who is considered an employee under this policy?

A: PHLI has a broad definition of employee which includes seasonal, leased, temporary, and volunteers. Independent contractors can be added via endorsement.

Q: Does this policy include third party EPL coverage and who is considered a third party?

A: Yes, the base form provides third party EPL coverage. A third party is any natural person who is not an employee of the company.

Q: I have few employees - is my company vulnerable to EPL lawsuits?

A: Yes, companies of all sizes can be the target of an EPL lawsuit. Even baseless claims can result in significant defense costs. Any employee or third party can file a lawsuit that can cost your company tens of thousands of dollars in defense costs alone.

CLAIM SCENARIOS

$1M Sexual Harassment and Wrongful Termination

Several female employees complained the CEO was sexually harassing them. The President proceeded to investigate the complaints. Within one month of the start of the investigation, the President was terminated by the CEO. The female employees filed a sexual harassment suit against the CEO. The President filed a separate wrongful termination suit.

$100,000 Disability Discrimination

An employee went on a medical leave for an illness. When he returned to work, he was not happy with the accommodations made for his condition. He sued alleging lost wages, emotional distress, and violation of disability discrimination statutes.

$150,000 Retaliation

An assistant to the CFO was fired for divulging information about impending layoffs at the company. The assistant brought suit for retaliation and sexual harassment claiming the CFO always made suggestive comments to her.

$540,000 Age Discrimination

A 62 year old sales representative was terminated for failing to meet his sales quota. Despite layoffs and cutbacks, there was no documentation showing the plaintiff was a poor performer. The sales rep sued alleging he was fired because of his age.

$200,000 Racial Discrimination

A group of applicants sued a private retail store for ethnic and racial discrimination after learning they had all be denied employment strictly based on their race and ethnic background.
